STRUCK WITH A PENCIL

A YOUNG SCHOOL BOY ALMOST KILLED.

A Companion Delivers a Blow That Renders Him Unconscious for Several Hours and Causes Lockjaw.

As a result of a boy's quarrel at the Royal school yesterday afternoon little Harry Hewitt lay for several hours in danger of death. He was struck on the temple by one of the boys in the school with a closed fist in which a pencil was held. The end of the pencil entered a contusion on the left temple and the force of the shock made him unconscious for several hours. Dr. Cooper was called to attend him. It was thought that concussion of the brain had resulted and that boy would die, but he improved shortly after midnight and is now considered out of danger.

The boy who struck the blow is a Portuguese. His name is not known, but the victim of the attack says he can identify him and Harry's father says he will try to have him sent to a reform school. Two companions helped young Hewitt to get home. He was unconscious and suffering from lockjaw. It will be some time before he regains his health completely.

Harry Hewitt is seven years old. He lives with his parents near the Honolulu Nursery. For some time after he received the injury he remained in the school, as he did not at first appear to be as seriously hurt as it turned out.

AUSTRIANS NOT CONTRACT

CAME HERE TO WORK AS FREE LABORERS.

Placed on a Maui Plantation on This Basis and Are Satisfied—Joe Lucca's Side of the Matter.

The Austrians brought here by Joe Lucca on the Doric, have no contracts, contrary to the statements of the San Francisco Examiner. They will work for Kihel plantation as free laborers on a salary, and if they do not like things there they will be at liberty to "take their clothes and go." This is the statement of the man who brought them here, and of the agents of the plantation.

In the new light of things it would appear that Lucca brought the men purely at his own risk, advancing their passage money upon their promise to repay at a future date. The trouble at San Francisco was started by a fruit vendor who told the immigrants that if they came to Honolulu they would certainly all die of black plague, as the disease was raging here. Moreover, this fellow said, the laborers in Hawaii were fed on sugar cane and bananas.

"I found these men in Tyrol," says Lucca, "in the extremes of poverty. It was at the town of Trient where some of my people live, and where I am well known. The people there live as poorly as the worst of Chinamen in Honolulu. They came to me and wanted to know what the chances were in Hawaii. I told them they could get from $15 to $20 a month working on the plantations. This was a gold mine in their eyes, and they all wanted to come. I agreed to take twenty-eight of them on condition that they repay me. My younger brother was one of the number. On the last day one of the men became sick, which threw out his family, as I did not care to start with any sick."

"They came to Honolulu purely and simply on my promise to find work for them. This I did, and not only that, but I went up to Maui and saw them comfortably installed. I do not believe any of them are dissatisfied. On the other hand, I think they will send for others of their people as soon as they are able."

THOSE LABOR BONDS.

The labor bonds of the planters, now in the hands of the Government, aggregate a little over $200,000. These bonds were conditioned upon the importation of at least one white man to ten Asiatics employed on the plantations. In this the planters and plantations were upset by the Italian and Portuguese governments, as well as discouragements from Washington.

Now ask that the bonds be cancelled for the reason that they have done their best to fulfill the agreement.

It is understood from an inside source that the Cabinet admits the justice of the contention of the planters, but is doubtful if it has the authority to cancel the bonds, thinking that it is probably a matter for the Legislature to handle.

THREE MONTHS' IMPORTS

LARGE INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR.

Hilo's Figures Over Three Hundred Per Cent Greater Than in 1899—Record at Other Island Ports.

Collector General Stackable has made a statement showing the imports at all the island ports for the first three months of the present year, as compared with 1899. There is a total increase of imports during the three months over 1899's figures of $1,367,983.95. The figures in 1899 were $3,880,933.90. This year they were $5,148,922.85. In proportion, Hilo has by far the largest increase, excepting such ports as Kailua, Waimea and Palaua, which did not appear at all in the statistics of imports in 1899. Hilo's imports in the first three months of 1899 were $145,625.57. This year they amounted to $639,313.71, an increase of about 300 per cent.

In connection with the figures showing such a large increase of imports to the islands, it is noted that in this year's imports of January, February and March there are no Oriental goods, which had they been allowed to enter, would have considerably increased the figures.

The following tables show the values of imports at the various island ports:

MARCH, 1899.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Miss Helen Wilder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Wilder, entertained some seventy of her little friends, yesterday, the anniversary of her third birthday. It was a bright afternoon, and the little ones enjoyed their games on the fine lawn. The mothers and nurses helped to keep things going, and served the little guests with cakes and dainties dear to the child heart, while the various grandmothers talked gossip in the shade. The affair was very enjoyable, and the little hostess was the recipient of many good wishes and pretty birthday gifts.

THE MOANALUA ITALIANS.

Some of Mr. Damon's Moanalei Italian friends are having an experience they will not soon forget, and if they can fix matters up, will probably not have the same happen again. In all this talk about labor and "free aid," etc., several Italians concluded that they could get better jobs outside and left Moanalei. They have since been "on their uppers" on the streets. Mr. Damon has been importuned to take them back, but reasonably refused. Last night some of the Italians called on a friend of Mr. Damon and asked him to intercede in their behalf. They do not want to go to San Francisco, nor any where else but Moanalei. In fact they have found that they have been astray.

CARGO OF LIME ON FIRE

EXCITING TIME ON SCHOONER CONCORD.

Sea Water Let in and Boiling Water Pumped Out of Her Hold Till She Was Saved.

A heavy sea, breaking over the decks of the little schooner Concord, running through an open hatch and starting fire in a cargo of lime, almost resulted in the destruction of the vessel on her last trip to windward. For some hours the hold of the vessel was full of sizzling lime, while all hands were hard at work pumping out boiling water and letting in the sea. The schooner is commanded by Captain Sam, the oldest native captain in the business here, and it was through his presence of mind and perseverance that the little vessel was kept above water. In Sam's long record there are no disasters, but it is considered remarkable that he got back without one this time.

As soon as the fire was discovered, Captain Sam ordered holes bored and the vessel, however, and the pump kept pace with the incoming water. In the end the crew won, the lime's heat was exhausted, and the vessel was saved. She was a good deal damaged, but Captain Sam sailed back to Honolulu with her keeling in company with the schooner Luka, which was coming the same way, so that if the Concord has been unable to sail, assistance would have been at hand. The captain is credited with a great achievement in saving the vessel as he did. At one time the Concord, with all her deck load shifted leeward until it seemed that she would go on her beam ends, but courage and perseverance won the day.

HAD NO FOOL FOR A CLIENT

Police orders must be reasonable. So says the District Court. The decision was rendered this morning in the case of the Republic of Hawaii vs. Haiola, charged with violating rule 3, of the published regulation regarding licensed hacks.

The venue of the action was Emma Square; the time of the circumstances cut of which the case arose was last night during the band concert. Haiola, who is licensed hack driver of twenty years standing, a Hawaiian of imposing stature, drove from Emma street into the lane marked of the square.

After remaining there for half an hour, according to the testimony of hack inspector Frank Ferreira, he started to turn around, and drive out to Emma street the way he came in, instead of driving around the square and coming out on the mauka side of the square.

There has been the custom for eight years, Ferreira, then according to his own testimony took the horse by the head and backed the vehicle again into the position in which it was, facing Waikiki. Haiola made two more attempts to carry out his original purpose, and each time was remonstrated with and prevented by Ferreira, who finally got into the hack and drove driver and rig down to the police station, amid jibes and jokes of the crowd.

Haiola appeared as his own attorney and entered a plea of act non, because he said, he had only driven a few feet into the lane off Emma street, and before he was interfered with by Ferreira had turned round and was almost back on Emma street again, and he argued with the officer that there was no reason why he should be required to turn back, and besides he knew of no published rule requiring vehicles to drive clear around the square.

Judge Wilcox said the evidence was one man's testimony against another's, in which case it was his duty to give the defendant the benefit of the doubt, besides there was no rule made to drive in the way he was ordered to, nor did they seem to be anything in the circumstances requiring it. He would therefore find the defendant not guilty, but would give him a reprimand.

TWO ARRIVALS.

The Luzon Beats the Andrew Welch Getting a Wharf.

A very small difference of time in arriving here today made a difference of a good many dollars between the bark Andrew Welch from San Francisco, and the Luzon, from New York. The Luzon, Captain Park, made the quickest trip of the year from New York, being 124 days out. There was a berth and a half at the Irmgard wharf. The Luzon got the berth, and about fifteen minutes later the Andrew Welch was at the end of the same wharf, where she has about half room to work in. The Luzon has a general cargo of 2,800 tons, and will load sugar.

TRIANGLE CLUB.

The Triangle Club will meet, again this evening for the discussion of municipal government. Strong speakers will take part. The general public is invited to be present.

ORDER TO BE RESCINDED.

The hackmen have won their effort to have Minister Young's order in regard to hack stands revoked. Mr. Young states that he has no personal interest in the matter, his action being what he deemed for the good of the greatest number. The people were the "bosses," however, and if they did not want it, that settled it. In all probability the subject will be taken up by the next Legislature.

MUST PAY WM. CARSON

DECISION AGAINST THE WILDER COMPANY.

Claudine Blamed for Accident of Night December 27—Damages Are $55,000, and Court Costs.

Judge Stillman today signed a decision in the case of the owners of the William Carson vs. Wilder Steamship Company, damages, entirely in the interest of the sailing vessel. The court adds that a decree for the entire value of the ship and costs of trial will be signed upon presentation against the defendant corporation.

The William Carson is alleged to have been worth $55,000. At 8:40 o'clock on the night of December last she and the steamer Claudine collided at sea, resulting in such damage to the ship that she became a complete wreck. The Claudine was blamed for the accident, and suit was promptly begun to recover the cost of the vessel. It is this matter that Judge Stillman now decides.

After reciting the case as presented, the court proceeds to discuss the testimony and seems to show that the William Carson was on her right course and that the Claudine was not. This, it is claimed, is shown by the witnesses of both sides. At the end of the court summarizes as follows:

"Some vigorous comment might be made on the fault of a steamer carrying passengers which was so lacking in discipline as the Claudine seems to have been, but it is sufficient that judgment for the loss is awarded against her owners."

"A decree for damages for the value of the ship and costs will be signed on presentation."

There will be an appeal from this decision to the Supreme court, although notice of same has not yet been given. E. W. Macfarlane and August Ahrens, guardians of the Richardson minors, have filed their annual accounts, charging $18,932.21, and crediting $18,912.15.

Frank Heustace has answered in the case of Harry Evans, et al. vs. the directors of the Kamalo Sugar Company. The most interesting showing is that the plaintiffs purchased their stock after the land deals complained of had been made.

George E. Boardman has been appointed administrator of the estate of the late Eliza J. Boardman, without bonds.

I. R. Burns has entered suit against S. A. M. of Maui, to recover on two notes of $373 and $156.80, respectively.

Cecil Brown has been appointed guardian of Mary Alice Porter, minor, under $12,500 bonds. He has filed bonds with Frank Heustace as surety.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Twenty-Six Japanese Women From Palau Released Today.

The twenty-six Japanese women arrested Saturday night in Palau, charged with being common prostitutes, all pleaded guilty this morning. The Deputy Marshal stated that it was understood they would not go back to the place from where they were arrested, and on that understanding he asked that sentence be suspended for thirty days.

Have you any objections, Mr. Brooks?" asked the court of the attorney for the women.

"None at all," replied Mr. Brooks.

"I think it would be better if the Marshal would wait a little till he has a place to send them to, before arresting these women," said Judge Wilcox in suspending sentence.

PROSSER WILL NOT COME.

Has Declined Position of Prosecutor in District Court.

M. F. Prosser is not to be the prosecuting officer in the District Court. Since the announcement that he was to be made, he has declined the offer of the position made to him. He returned to Kaula some days ago, and will remain there, continuing his practice of the law there, which is said to be both large and lucrative.

Marshal Brown said this morning that for the present at any rate, the prosecutions will be continued in the way that they have been. The Deputy Marshal will continue to prosecute most of the cases on the calendar, and the Marshal himself will appear in the more important cases, or in those where he is more familiar with the facts.

COUNTRY PEOPLE IN TOWN

INFLUX OF OAHU PEOPLE SINCE YESTERDAY.

Are Pouring in by Rail and Private Conveyance—Plan for Gala Week for All Island People.

There was yesterday, and has been today, a rush of Oahu people to town. Many from Ewa, Wainane, Wailua, Kahu and over the Fall, are reaching the city. They have been shut out since last December, and are gladly accepting the opportunity of coming in to see friends and transact business. Their first visit is always to the burned district, which was Chinatown when they were last here.

The Oahu Railway has for two days had the biggest traffic of years, both in passengers and freight. Every train of every car has been called into service. Freight cars began to pile up yesterday morning. The regular trains took all they possibly could, and extras were called out. Extra cars were run all day, and today every freight car on the line is doing something. Passenger traffic was immense. Out of town cars were filled, and incoming trains had their capacity taken up. It is expected that this traffic will keep up all the week.

The railway people are preparing for an immense travel down the line next Sunday. All the fine new passenger coaches will be put out, and Passenger Agent Fred Smith is thinking of running extra trains. He is also figuring on special rates for the round trip, which may be decided upon between now and Sunday.

Merchants are expecting a big influx of people by the Island steamers, especially the ones from Maui and Hawaii. People of the Islands have been shut out of the city for over four months. There is talk of securing special rates from the steamers for a week, and having a general excursion from all sides to the city for the purpose of seeing what has happened during the quarantine. It is believed that such an opportunity would be availed of by 10,000 people, and would be a good thing all around. Some of the merchants are earnestly talking of it, and may bring the matter before the Chamber of Commerce.

A RUSE THAT WORKED.

How a Special Policeman Broke Up a Noisy Crowd.

One of the white special policemen adopted a ruse to break up a row at a luau on Punchbowl street Saturday night that worked to perfection. The gathering was big one. Late at night, when the fountain of swipes had run long, the crowd became noisy and fights threatened. Complaints were sent to the station house and a special went
